Paid leave (vacation) will be according to the collective bargaining agreement or Company policy valid at any given time. The Employee has 30 days per year with fully accrued vacation. Vacation year according to the Annual Leave Act (Semesterlagen) from April 1st to March 31st.

The Company offers the Employee vacation in advance of an entitlement according to 5:4 in the collective bargaining agreement. When leave is taken in advance, a deduction will be made from the leave entitlement and/or final salary if the Employee leaves the Company within five years of taking up employment. A deduction will not be made if employment is terminated due to redundancy.

3. Salary and other benefits

The employee is entitled to receive salary and other benefits according to the following provisions during the contract period. The salary is paid monthly.

3.1 Gross Salary

Gross salary is based on 68000 SEK per month in the 2025 salary level.

Salary and other benefits are reviewed annually.

3.2 Leasing Car

The Employee is eligible for a leasing car according to Company policy valid at any given time. This applies to permanent employment.

3.3 Pension & Insurance

The Employee will receive insurance and pension benefits according to the above-mentioned collective agreement. The pension terms are regulated in accordance with ITP1.

4. Other compensation

The Company will compensate the Employee for necessary and verifiable business expenses. Subsistence allowance and mileage allowance will be according to Company policy valid at any given time.

5. Loyalty

Mutual loyalty and trust are conditions of employment. The Employee must perform his or her work to create maximum trust and goodwill for the Company's business.

Under the provisions of this agreement, the Employee is obliged to devote all his or her working hours and effort to assignments. Without the prior written approval of his or her immediate superior, the Employee does not have the right privately or via an agent to directly or indirectly

1. conduct business, or
2. undertake assignments or perform operations that may have a negative impact on the obligations attached to employment by the Company.

6. Declarations and confidentiality

The Employee is directed not to make declarations that may directly or indirectly have a negative impact or damage the reputation or renown of the Company or its subsidiaries.

The Employee undertakes without any time limitation, i.e. including the time following cessation of employment, not to directly or indirectly exploit Company secrets or other confidential information deriving from the Company or its subsidiaries for his or her own benefit.

Confidential information is understood to mean all information deriving from the Company, its operations, or customers or attributable to any subsidiary, said subsidiary's operations, or customers regardless of whether the information is documented in any special way or not. Thus, among other things, confidential information includes:

1. Customer register and other information about customers
2. Information concerning suppliers
3. Marketing plans, expenditure, and revenue analyses.

The examples enumerated above are not exhaustive. Confidential information may also include data gathered from the Company's customers. Information that is made public by the Company is not covered by this clause.

7. Recruitment clause

The employee undertakes to during the employment period and for a period of six (6) months from the date of termination of employment;

- a) through employment for other company not to persuade or try to persuade Epical customers or business partners whom the Employee has worked with during the last 12 months to terminate or not renew their agreement with Epical or go to a competing operation or assist with such proceedings,

b) or through partnership in a competing company or own company work for Epical customers or potential customers which the Employee has worked with during the last 12 months prior to the cessation of the employment, if not agreed with Epical,

c) or not to persuade or try to persuade Epical employees or other Epical-affiliated consultants to leave their employment/assignments or to assist with such proceedings.

7.1 The recruitment clause does not apply if:

- a) Epical terminates the employment contract for reasons other than Breach of Contract on the part of the Employee or
- b) the Employee terminates his or her employment and the termination is caused by a Breach of Contract on the part of Epical or
- c) Epical informs the Employee that the competition prohibition is no longer in force

Breach of Contract is understood to mean actions or negligence that give the counterparty the right to terminate the employment contract with immediate effect.

8. Intellectual property rights

Intellectual property rights to any kind of product or service such as patents or copyright that arise during the period of employment must be regarded as the Company's or its customer's property regardless of the type of media with which the intellectual property is recorded unless otherwise specially agreed. The Employee is obliged to assist the Company to be fully credited with the rights referred to in this clause.

9. Penalty

If the Employee is in breach of the provisions regarding declarations and confidentiality and/or intellectual property rights, the Employee must pay the Company on demand a penalty equivalent to six (6) months' salary (calculated based on the average monthly salary the Employee has received during the preceding six-month period before the violation) for each violation. If the Company can prove that damages exceed the amount of the penalty, the Employee must cover the damages in full. The payment of penalties and any damages does not affect the Company's right to apply other penalties arising from the violation.

10. Personal data and data protection

The employee confirms that, in accordance with applicable personal data legislation, the Company informed the Employee of the Company's processing of the employee's personal data.

The employee undertakes to comply with the Company's policy regarding the utilization of the Company's computers, e-mail systems, Internet services, and other software programs. The employee is thus aware that the Company has complete access to all material, all e-mail correspondence, and an overview of Internet usage that is stored in or takes place over the Company's computer system.

11. Company property

Upon termination of employment – regardless of the reason – the Employee must immediately return the Company's property such as computers, telephones, keys, access cards, documentation, and all of the property the Employee has had access to during his or her employment. Such material constitutes the Company's property and may be used by the Employee only during the employment and in the Company's interest. This also applies to property acquired away from the workplace.

12. Contract time and termination

This agreement applies from the date of entry stated in the agreement. The mutual notice period is 3 months for both parties. The notice period when notice is given by the Company could be longer, in accordance with the above-mentioned collective agreement.

13. Disputes

Disputes concerning the existence, interpretation or application of this agreement shall be settled by a public court in Sweden.

14. Amendments and supplements

For amendments and additions to this agreement to be binding they must be in writing and signed by both parties.

15. Other

The Employee is willing to undertake the travel necessary for the position including away from the location of employment. As a consultant, the Employee's customer assignments may occur both at and away from the place of employment from time to time.

During the period of employment, the Employee must comply with policies and guidelines established by the Company from time to time.
